

Dear Sir/Madam,

Regarding your recent email advice on the above topic please note that Cooloola Shire Council has had very limited experience with telework activities.

Council has to date had one pilot project with a single staff member working remotely from Newcastle, NSW for a period of several months due to personal/family reasons. Cooloola Shire Council's main administration functions are based out of the City of Gympie in South East Queensland.

This single project worked well and Council will consider further requests on an as needs basis at the present time rather than via any deliberate push to decentralise it's office work force.

Given the above level of experience in the field Council will on this occasion pass on the opportunity to be part of your review.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Hayes
Information Technology Manager
